Angella Nazarian is a free-spirited philanthropist who loves to travel (she's visited over 70 countries with her husband and two sons) and to give back. Two years ago, along with three friends, she co-founded Visionary Women, a nonprofit that highlights the voices of women and thought leaders from around the world. Last year, she collaborated with Leymah Gbowee, the Nobel laureate, who came from Liberia to encourage women and girls to be advocates in the peace-building process.

What are you working on? I am doing a lot of research and reading that will lead to a sequel to the Visionary Women book that I came out with last year with publisher Assouline.

Where do you get your inspiration? I am a true book nerd, and I love biographies. Other people's lives and how they handle challenges inspires me.

If you could take only one person on vacation with you, who would it be? My father. He passed away many years ago, but he is always in my thoughts. I wished I could have had a father-daughter trip to Paris, his favorite city, which I never got to have with him.

Name three things you couldn't leave behind. My phone that carries my extensive playlist, my husband, and a cashmere wrap or scarf because I'm always so cold.

Where's your favorite place to escape to? My new favorite spot is the Amangiri, located in the middle of the desert in Utah. The landscape and the canyon hikes are truly surreal. aman.com/resorts/amangiri

Favorite fashion items for this season? Alexander McQueen's new pantsuit with the embroidered lips and butterflies—it's to die for. It's a playful version of the power suit! And to finish it off I would have to say Gianvito Rossi metallic pumps. They're just the right pump to give your outfit that final POW!

Favorite carry-on? Louis Vuitton in black with no logo.

First class or private jet? No private jet... first class for me!

Where are you going next?

I am off to Japan—first stop, Naoshima Island—one of the most remarkable art and architecture destinations in the world. Pritzker Prize-winning architect Tadao Ando designed most of the structures on the island. Then my husband, David, and I are off on a 10-day bike tour through the countryside.

Tell us something unique about yourself I love to Flamenco dance. I've been taking classes for the past seven years. Overall, I would say my goal is to have an impact on my community and beyond. I've been fortunate in my life, and I honestly find joy in sharing that with others. I am a firm believer in giving back. Peace and love to all.

How do you go from day to night without taking your entire closet with you? I have gotten so good at transitioning. Adding on statement jewelry or accessories and, usually, wearing heels does the trick.

What shoes do you bring? I love comfortable walking shoes for daytime. I love this season's Gucci tennis shoes—very feminine and hip.
